'Chaotic and congested' shop leads to striking off

A Ruislip pharmacist's "chaotic and congested" premises led to his name being removed from the Pharmaceutical Register, at a Statutory Committee hearing on December 19, 1991.

Nalin Ratilal Shah, owner of the pharmacy at 53 Victoria Road, Ruislip, was given an opportunity to improve his shop on ten occasions which included five visits by a Society inspector between June 6 and November 1990 and two visits in 1991, the last on December 10.

"The conditions prevailing in his pharmacy may be summarised as so chaotic and congested as to bring the profession of pharmacy into disrepute and to create a potential hazard to public safety," said Committee secretary Alison Hopkin.

Counsel for the Society, David Bradley, said the Society's inspector Janet Edginton became concerned about the condition of the pharmacy after a visit in June 1990. Subsequent visits did show some improvements, "but conditions in the pharmacy were wholly unsatisfactory," Miss Edginton said she found the premises "dirty" and there were out of date tablets on shelves. She also received a complaint from a member of the public after medicines had been incorrectly labelled and the patient took the wrong dosage.

On one occasion Mr Shah "appeared dazed" and told her he was taking medication for hypertension after suffering a stroke. She found a toothbrush and crockery around the only sink on the premises.

Mr Shah's counsel Dr Simon Taylor admitted misconduct on behalf of his client but said: "This is not a case where it is appropriate to remove Mr Shah's name from the register." He asked the Committee to delay making a decision to allow Mr Shah, whose wife is a GP in Southall, to make improvements.

"Mr Shah had a stroke in 1983 and in 1990 he began to develop problems with his leg which affected his mobility and general health and in March of this year he broke his left hip and was off work for six months," said Dr Taylor. In 1990 the rent on his shop shot up to £14,000 per annum. Bailiffs were sent round without warning from the landlord. Mr Shah is at present trying to sell the pharmacy.

Committee chairman Mr Gary Flather, QC, said: "The public must be protected from possible errors occurring. They need to be protected from dirty and unhygienic conditions."

"There can only be one answer and that is to direct that Mr Shah be removed from the Register."

'Kiss it goodbye'

March 11 has been designated the ninth national No Smoking Day, intended to encourage and support people who want to stop smoking. The theme will be "Kiss it goodbye" with posters featuring a scene from the film Casablanca.

Running in parallel, the Pharmacy Healthcare Scheme is organising a window-display competition in pharmacies and a range of "in store" display material including banners, posters, stickers, T-shirts, balloons and advice leaflets.

Campaign packs of merchandise (£5) and variety packs (£10) are available from Sharon Crawford on 071-413 1919. For details of the competition contact Roger Odd, Royal Pharmaceutical Society.

NHS equality pledge

Equal opportunities policies and equal access to healthcare for ethnic minority groups must underpin NHS decision making, according to Secretary for Health, William Waldegrave.

Speaking at a meeting with the Bristol Racial Equality Council, Mr Waldegrave said: "The Government is committed to promoting equality of opportunity in health service delivery for all members of the community. Health authorities are expected to provide services which are acceptable to members of ethnic minority communities. This involves positive action to take account of differences in language, culture and religion."

Information must be readily available to explain what the health authority is doing and why, he said. Messages need to be tailored to make them relevant and understandable to all groups of the local community.

Mr Waldegrave also said the Government is committed to the achievement of racial equality and is seeking to appoint candidates from ethnic minorities to regional and district health authorities, family health services authorities and NHS Trusts.

New Year resolutions?

With the New Year upon us, a reader offers some resolutions for pharmacists in management.

- Crab apples need praise and encouragement
- Being decisive isn't always being positive
- Constructive feedback is developmental
- Clear managers get there fast
- A complaint is an opportunity to improve service
- Every fear is a challenge in disguise
- Mistakes are learning experiences
- Public praise is better than private praise
- Public criticism is destructive
- Divide and rule equals less than the sum of the whole
- Your failure to manage time affects my ability to manage my time
- Discussion takes time but creates team spirit and a feeling of belonging
- Being assertive does not mean being rude and unkind
- Discussions with others advances your thought processes.

Sheffield LPC hits out at local news report on Which? survey

An article in Sheffield paper The Star (December 10) which advised patients to visit their doctors rather than seek advice from pharmacists has sparked an angry protest from the Local Pharmaceutical Committee.

The editorial comment in The Star was based on the Consumers' Association's Which? Way to Health report on the advice given by community pharmacists (C&D December 7, p930).

"The sensible message for everyone is that pharmacists, helpful and skillful as many of them are, are not doctors and except for the smallest of ailments, it is safer to ask a doctor," it concluded.

The article also described the Royal Pharmaceutical Society's declaration that the profession is raising standards continuously as "not reassuring".

In a letter to the paper, unpublished as C&D went to Press, LPC secretary Martin Bennett says the the NHS would grind to a halt if the one million daily requests for advice that pharmacists dealt with were channelled through doctors.

"Any profession measured against a yardstick of perfection will always be found wanting," he continues. "A recent survey of doctors in Holland showed the same sort of results."

Mr Bennett points out that a survey carried out by Sheffield Community Health Council last year showed that over 95 per cent of people were satisfied with the advice they received from their pharmacist. "I suspect that the general public judge 'pharmacy' by the service they receive locally," he said. "If they are not happy they vote with their feet and take their custom elsewhere."

The letter also draws the newspaper's attention to the small print of the survey which concluded that pharmacists were immediately available, generally gave safe and correct advice, suggested proper remedies, and offered the least expensive product available.

"It is far better that the public obtains free expert advice from a professionally qualified pharmacist than relies on good intentioned hearsay obtained from a neighbour or at the supermarket checkout," said Mr Bennett.

"The Which? report was based in London, Nottingham and Swansea. I wonder if you would think it a reasonable conclusion if, on the basis of a survey that showed inaccurate stories in a number of non-Sheffield provincial newspapers, I suggested that your readers should stop reading The Star and buy a 'quality' daily newspaper?" he said.

Reprimand after unsupervised sale

A West London pharmacy was reprimanded for selling unsupervised medicines following an appearance at the Royal Pharmaceutical Society's Statutory Committee on December 18, 1991.

When they appeared at Marylebone Magistrates Court on March 1, 1991, UG's Pharmacy Ltd at 104 Holland Park Avenue, Notting Hill, pleaded guilty to selling the medicines.

On July 4, 1990 a Society inspector was sold Day Nurse together with Panadeine Co. The company was fined £200 on each charge and £200 costs.

Mrs Lia Patel of 34 Queensgate Gardens, South Kensington, one of the company's directors who is not a pharmacist, was working in the shop at the time and explained to the Committee that she had employed a locum pharmacist to cover for Arum Nandha, the superintendent pharmacist who although appointed did not start work until July 10.

Although the pharmacy usually closed at 8pm, Mrs Patel let the locum leave at 7.15pm, intending to close so they could watch the semi final of the World Cup.

"We have now made sure the pharmacist employed does not leave the shop until it is closed," she added. Giving evidence, Mr Nandha said he was aware that it was his duty to leave the control of the pharmacy under the personal control of a pharmacist, yet he left it to Mrs Patel to arrange a locum.

Chairman of the Committee, Mr Gary Flather QC, said: "Mr Nandha's position comes perilously close to misconduct but there were practicable difficulties and I think he took the best course by delegating to Mrs Patel.

"Mr Nandha has to be warned that if it wasn't for his youth and complete inexperience, this Committee would have taken this matter very much more seriously. We do not find him guilty of misconduct and we impose a reprimand upon the company for the convictions."

Fundholding GPs a target for pharmacy

The future possibility of fund holding GPs actively seeking to purchase pharmacy-related services in the community will be used by Liverpool Local Pharmaceutical Committee as a spur to structure continuing education and the provision of pharmacy services in its area.

The move is related to the General Medical Services Committee "removing its objections" to GP fund holding. In theory this could mean a lowering of the threshold for practices to become fund holders or possibly even adjacent practices joining together to qualify for fund holding status, Jeremy Clitherow, LPC secretary, told C&D.

As soon as the second and third wave of fund holding practices come on stream they will be able to purchase services from wherever they wish, he explained. Pharmacy is looking at the ways it can provide healthcare, for example selling PACT data or advising on smoking cessation or mental health services, said Mr Clitherow.

Liverpool Family Health Services Authority has received the LPC's proposals for the role of community pharmacy "with open arms", he said. The integration of pharmacy into the healthcare team is one of the Authority's Business Plan objectives.

The Committee is initially planning an open meeting of contractors in February to examine the out of hours provision of services.

The LPC is waiting for the FHSA to identify priorities within its proposals and give the "green light" to proceed. The LPC then plans to meet with local doctors.

Job shortage threatens in Australia

Less than half the graduates expected from the University of South Australia's Pharmacy School this year have been able to get employment (Australian Journal of Pharmacy, December 1991). Statutory requirements for registration include working in a pharmacy.

Federal government proposals for pharmacy re-structuring have resulted in the closure of more than 55 pharmacies in South Australia in the past year. This has led to fewer places for trainees and displaced pharmacists taking jobs normally available to graduates.

Community pharmacists in Australia are taking part in a national campaign to help educate asthmatics and supervise their therapy.

APPOINTMENTS

Glaxo chief executive Ernest Mario has been appointed deputy chairman of Glaxo Holdings from January 1. Mr Mario retains the responsibilities of chief executive and is expected to work closely with the chairman, Paul Girolami, on long-term strategy. However, Mr Girolami has no plans to retire, say Glaxo. Jeremy Strachan, group director, corporate affairs of Glaxo, has joined the board of Glaxo Holdings as an executive director, also from January 1.

Jane Nicholson, a senior registration advisor at Bristol Myers Squibb Pharmaceuticals Ltd and an RPSGB Council member, has been appointed to the Medicines Control Agency Supervisory Board.

Mrs Nicholson is one of five non-executive members to be appointed to the board. The others include the chief executive officer of ICI Pharmaceuticals David Friend and Professor John Hampton of the Department of Cardiology, Nottingham University.

Sad Sundays for Woollies workers

The shopworkers' union USDAW says Woolworths are trying to get employees to work Sundays for no extra pay.

Under the existing USDAW agreement shopworkers are entitled to double time on Sundays, but Woolworths are getting non-union members to sign different contracts.

The new contract, for part-timers, offer no overtime rates until the employee has done 39 hours in the week, and then it only offers time and a half instead of the double time negotiated by USDAW in its national agreement.

"They are introducing these contracts store by store," an USDAW spokesman told C&D. "We have protested and our store representatives have also been registering their protests, but people have been signing these contracts."

A spokesman for Woolworths said staff are not being forced against their will to work on Sundays. "We have never had any problems getting people to work on Sundays, either voluntarily or under contract."

"The contract says that some of the employees' contracted hours may be worked on Sunday. The employee gets single time for the first 39 hours a week, then time and a half," says Woolworths' spokesman.

"The contracts are all above board; they have not been introduced just before Christmas."

• Ivor Stanbrook (Con), a leading opponent of the liberalisation of the Sunday trading laws, attacked the Government in the Commons for failing to encourage the enforcement of the existing law.

He refused to accept that because there was an appeal involving the European Court it was not possible to mount prosecutions for breach of the 1950 Shops Act.

Cosmetics Directive

Edward Leigh, junior Trade Minister, told the Commons that the DTI consumer safety unit was considering with the industry's trade associations what could be done to reduce animal testing of cosmetics.

The Body Shop had been informed that when the unit had the views of the industry as a whole it would be pleased to talk to independent companies.

Mr Leigh told Joyce Quin (L) that the European Parliament was expected to give its opinion on the proposed sixth amendment to the Cosmetics Directive in February. Meanwhile, work was continuing in the Commons working group to agree a draft for submission to the Council of Ministers to be taken forward in the New Year.

Future of AGB in balance

The market research company AGB International, bought by Robert Maxwell in 1988, is facing a possible management buyout.

Earlier reports suggested the company could be broken up, but the group human resources director Mike Petch told C&D: "The management of the business have informed the administrator they are making a bid for it". However, he could not confirm the size of the bid or suggest when a decision might be made.

The managing director Mark Booth left four months ago and has not been replaced. The management bid has been made by the five remaining board members, including Mr Petch.

Slim Fast

Thompson Medical have formed a new company to be responsible for the Slim Fast business in the UK, Sun Nutritional Inc.

A spokesman for Thompson said Sun Nutritional have plans for television advertising and product development. "It is with this future in mind that Sun Nutritional Inc can concentrate on Slim Fast and Thompson Medical can concentrate on Aqua Ban, Bran Slim, Catarrh-Ex and Coda Med."

Sun Nutritional Inc, Salisbury House, 302-308 High Street, Slough, SL1 1LY. Tel: 0753 551414; fax: 0753 551913.

Aspen data

Aspen Field Marketing, who market and distribute Procter & Gamble and Max Factor, have joined the electronic data interchange system Tradanet.

The system, described as an "electronic postbox", allows retailers to place orders and receive invoices directly through a nationwide data communications network.

David Gavins, the managing director of Aspen, says: "We are not just being asked to provide merchandising services such as calling on outlets and installing POS material. We are increasingly taking responsibility for the product."

Script statistics

August figures released by the Northern Ireland Health and Social Services show that a total of 1,261,599 prescriptions were dispensed at a gross cost of £10,201,757.59 (net cost £9,822,127.19). The gross cost per prescription was £8.09.

In September, 1,324,057 prescriptions were dispensed at a gross cost of £10,406,025.56 (net cost £10,017,997.16). The gross cost per prescription was £7.86.

Questions over PCC decisions

A recent application for an NHS dispensing contract on the outskirts of Bangor had some interesting elements which, now that the matter has been laid to rest, are worthy of consideration.

"It is incredible that a PCC can refuse a contract then change its mind a few months later"

The sequence of events started when some doctors at Bangor Health Centre relocated their practice to new premises. Provision had been made in the newly erected building for a pharmacy, and a local pharmacist signed up as a possible tenant. The pharmacist applied for a dispensing contract to the Eastern Board and the Pharmaceutical Contractors Committee turned it down. He re-applied some months later: this time the PCC granted the application. Understandably a group of contractors from the area opposed the decision and took it to the National Appeals Panel which, after long deliberation, overturned the PCC ruling.

That may be the end of the matter — I hope so — but it is incredible that a PCC can meet, assess a contract application and decide to turn it down, then a number of months later consider a fresh application from the same applicant consisting of the same elements and, I presume, the same opposition and decide that a contract should be awarded.

There was a further complication: the Code of Ethics forbids an undesirable "business" relationship between a pharmacist and a doctor. In this case, had the contract been awarded, the doctors would have been the pharmacist's landlords. It is the view of the Pharmaceutical Society of Northern Ireland that this would have constituted a breach of the Code of Ethics on the part of the pharmacist warranting referral to the Statutory Committee.

I still believe that limitation of contract is desirable and that the present method of achieving it is in the best interests of the profession. It is effective in stopping "leapfrogging" but it is also, due to the resultant increased cost of existing contracts, stopping younger members of the professions becoming independent pharmacists. The powers that be should be addressing ways around this latter problem.

Written by a Northern Ireland community pharmacist.

Barnet boost for High Street role

All credit to Barnet Family Health Services Authority and the participating community pharmacists in launching their High Street Health programme (C&D December 14 p966). Much praise was forthcoming from the Health Minister Virginia Bottomley. She admired their action in not waiting for the outcome of the Working Party on the Future Role of Community Pharmacy. There was also an enthusiastic endorsement by Barnet FHSA chairman Doreen Miller, who suggested the scheme could become a model for the national development of health promotion in community pharmacies.

Fine words and deeds all round, but where does this take the community pharmacist? Encouragement and co-operation from Government and family health services authorities is necessary for the development of our future role — and a co-ordinated training scheme is essential — but the motivation for pharmacists to participate cannot be purely vocational. In Barnet patients will be directed to participating accredited premises for free advice so, initially at least, the "payment" for the pharmacist will be from the sales that might be a part of the offered advice, together with the hidden message that these pharmacies will offer a better service than their non-participating counterparts. I am amazed that all 92 pharmacies in the Barnet FHSA area were not clamouring for acceptance, but I assume that places on this pilot initiative were limited!

Cynicism aside, this scheme has positive merits, but for how long can the Department of Health encourage our future role without offering one brass farthing in payment for the training or necessary service fees? Compulsory continuing education for all pharmacists must now be a priority but that education cannot be divorced from the realities of practice. Our future role has now been identified and enthusiastically grasped but it will not progress unless future continuing education is made consistent with the training needs of that role, and resources made available within a defined contract to fund adequately both the training and its execution on the shop floor.

Discounts — down to PSNC to force changes

It was recently announced that Peter Dodd is soon to retire as chief executive of Unichem at the ripe old age of 55. I too dream of retirement, but it is still only a dream, and any envy must be attributed to sour grapes. I have not always seen eye to eye with Mr Dodd, but he did rescue Unichem in their darkest hour, and he has made them one of the most successful companies in pharmaceutical wholesaling.

One of my bitterest criticisms of him goes back to the start of the discount wars, the benefits of which are still being harvested by a grateful Treasury. It is indeed ironic that I now find myself supporting him against the Pharmaceutical Services Negotiating Committee's suggestion that wholesalers should reduce their discount threshold to compensate contractors against the probable loss of discount resulting from the agency agreements negotiated by Glaxo with the full-line wholesalers.

The demise of Medicopharma demonstrates the knife-edge reality of wholesaling profitability and, even if the problem was self-inflicted, it is down to PSNC to pressurise the Department of Health for a rapid change in the discount scale, as and when the problem occurs, and not expect the wholesalers to hale them out. As it is, I view this impending agency system of Glaxo's with great suspicion, particularly as they have kept their proposals on future discount levels very firmly under wraps.

Beware of slow-release confusion

Generically prescribed drugs are a cost saving for the NHS but do exert pressure on the innovative sector of the pharmaceutical industry. In an attempt to limit the damage, many drugs are now marketed in sustained release formulations when there can be no direct generic equivalent. Fine for the manufacturer, and tough on the NHS drug budget, but occasionally unexpected problems can occur.

Diltiazem is marketed both as Tildiem in a modified release formulation and as its modified release generic equivalent, but different from Tildiem formulation — confusion but few problems when only one strength was available. Lorex then introduced Tildiem Retard 90mg and 120mg as an advance in patient compliance, so now the dangers become apparent. A script for Diltiazem Retard with no strength can be interpreted and dispensed as 60mg modified release, when either of the other two strengths was intended. A potential time bomb for the unwary pharmacist or unsuspecting patient but a problem problem that, now recognised, can be rectified. With the retard formulation on the market the expression "modified release" is not only irrelevant, but dangerously misleading. It is used principally on computer-generated prescriptions as an intrinsic part of the data base, but should now be removed, thus avoiding any potential future ambiguity.

Topical REFLECTIONS

Counterpoints

Unichem unveil Partnership Programme for 1992

Unichem have unveiled the key elements in their Partnership Programme — the marketing support package for their pharmacist customers in 1992. Both new and existing merchandising, promotional and other marketing services have been pulled together in a Partnership manual which is being distributed by the sales force from this week.

Emphasis is being placed on maximising local promotional opportunities, combined with improved merchandising and display. Deputy marketing director Tony Foreman says the package allows pharmacies to fight back against the competition if they chose to do so, and is geared to generating increased customer flow and pulling stock through the retailer rather than selling it in.

The monthly promotions book, in a redesigned and less cluttered A4 format, will highlight five leading offers. Unichem have pledged £150,000 towards point-of-sale support for the leading monthly promotions: 500 top accounts will receive a free standing display unit and window POS material. A further 1,500 accounts will receive the window display material and all will get free shelf talkers.

In a new trade loyalty scheme retailers will be awarded one "partnership point" for every £10 spent on branded OTC purchases from the promotional book. These may be redeemed for personal or business related items from a prize catalogue, or for services in the Partnership Programme manual.

Themed promotions and mailshots will continue alongside the monthly promotions.

Unichem will also be producing their own consumer magazine, Healthy Times. Published three times a year with a print run of 800,000, it will be distributed free through pharmacies.

Additionally the company will be hosting two trade shows: at Thorpe Park on June 7 and Alton Towers on July 5, with an anticipated 60 manufacturers participating.

On the consumer front the Unichem road show will again be on tour. A purpose built 40ft trailer will visit 11 yet-to-be-selected venues during June, July and August. A holiday leaflet will be handed out offering prizes and money-off coupons dependent on visiting a local Unichem pharmacy.

In April and May Unichem will be running a national "spot the ball" competition, claimed to be the biggest consumer promotion in the independent sector. Two million "cheque books" will be mailed to selected consumers, each containing money-off coupons on selected OTC brands, a list of local Unichem pharmacies and the competition, with ten Volkswagen Polos as consumer prizes.

A further one million cheque books will be distributed through pharmacies taking part in the promotion. And to encourage participation, trade customers will be entered in a draw to win one of ten camcorders when purchasing the promotional package.

Pharmacists are also being given the opportunity to run their own local promotion. For a set price of £89 Unichem will provide 3,000 personalised leaflets and arrange distribution in the pharmacy's catchment area. The leaflet offers entry to a free draw for a weekend break for two (paid for by Unichem) when they visit their local pharmacy. Applications must be received by February 28 from interested pharmacists.

On the advertising front a package is available offering simple and cheap ways to advertise locally, which pharmacists can buy into as they wish. Unichem will personalise the advert and organise its placing in the local Press.

Own label support to the tune of £2.5 million will continue in 1992. A baby care promotion in May will see 2.5 million leaflets being distributed through pharmacies and two baby care magazines, offering prizes in return for proofs of purchase from the own label range.

Unichem will be updating their planograms to aid shelf layout, and relaunching them at the trade shows in the Summer. They will be available for £25. Shopfittings services through Planova and fascias, for which Unichem will fund up to £200 of the cost, also feature in the Partnership manual, as do merchandising services through CPM (for the latter inquiries must be made by February 28).

A directional POS

package is available for £89. Two sets of signs come in the pack: for the window a header sign and eight service signs and for the interior 17 product group signs.

Also carried in the Partnership manual are details of other services available such as Unipos, finance packages, training and information evenings, and Unichem's Simple Solutions catalogue detailing aids for the elderly and disabled. Unichem plc. Tel: 081-391 2323.

LRC target women with Durex Assure

The latest Durex condom, being sold this month, has been designed for women to buy and carry.

The launch of Assure is based on consumer research which showed that, although women agreed it was sensible to carry condoms, unmarried women in particular thought this was associated with the stigma of being a "loose woman" and they felt embarrassed when buying such items. Many said they would prefer to find condoms displayed with sanpro or other feminine hygiene products, rather than near the till in sight of male customers.

LRC Products Ltd believe the slimline pack, which fits discreetly into a handbag, is stylish and has feminine appeal. On shelf, two packs of three condoms (£2.49) are blister-packed on a card which is clearly branded with the Durex logo and BSI Kitemark. Once the card is removed, Assure is the only visible brand name. The cards can be hung up or displayed in an outer of six.

Assure contains an improved lubricant called ASL (advanced spermicidal lubricant). The condom is coral coloured, teat ended and odourless.

LRC see the target market as "a broad spectrum of women, in terms of age, sexual confidence and lifestyle, but particularly those who are favourably disposed to condom usage and not in a steady relationship."

Research has shown that 23 per cent of condoms are bought by women and that 60 per cent of single women buy condoms from pharmacies.

Promotion will concentrate on public relations, with editorial features in the national and women's Press aimed at stimulating discussion on the issue of women carrying condoms.

A health and sex survey will appear in a leading women's magazine and several women's magazines will offer 50p off coupons. Assure will also be the subject of a radio tape syndicated throughout the UK to complement an Assure media tour.

The promotion, with a £500,000 spend in 1992, starts in February. LRC Products Ltd. Tel: 081-527 2377.

Fuji zoom in on quality with binocular style compact

Fuji have launched a zoom compact with a host of special features, ranging from a staged zooming option to an eyesight adjustment dial.

The result is a camera which breaks out of the traditional box shaped design with a completely new bodyshape. The FZ-3000 houses its 38-115mm zoom in a binocular style body, designed to make the camera easy to hold and site the additional features where they fall easily to hand.

In addition to the normal zoom function the FZ-3000 has a three step quick zoom which instantly sets the lens to 38, 70 or 155mm.

A real image viewfinder zooms with the lens so the user sees what he or she will get in the final picture.

There is an eyesight adjustment dial, an LCD information panel and a date/time imprinting facility, plus an autofocus lock.

Standard zoom compact features such as auto exposure are included, but with this model there is also a backlight button to compensate for awkwardly lit portraits.

Three of the FZ-3000 models have a built in flash and there is also the option of a separate flash unit which zooms with the lens. If the subject is out of flash range the camera warns the photographer to use the external flashgun.

A sequential self-timer takes up to three shots in rapid succession.

Fuji have aimed for an easy to use and comfortable to handle camera with a long zoom range and the features to cope with any lighting conditions. The FZ-3000 costs about £220, including carrying case. Fuji Photo Film. Tel: 071-586 5900.

Smithkline Beecham have relaunched their Quickies range of cosmetic wipes. The brand has been given a new look, with updated packaging and colour coding for the three different variants. Smithkline Beecham Personal Care. Tel: 081-560 5151.

Complete Blistex care for dry lips

Dendron are launching a range of lipcare products under the Blistex name.

It will consist of three products — lip cream, lip balm and lip conditioner. Blistex lip cream has a soothing formula, designed to treat severely dry, cracked and chapped lips. It has a lip-tip applicator which allows the cream to be applied quickly and easily. It retails at £1.54 (5g).

Blistex lip balm (4.25g £0.65) is mildly medicated and rich in emollients and helps relieve and prevent dryness caused by sun, wind and cold. It has an SPF of 10.

Blistex lip conditioner (7g £1.59) is an emollient for conditioning lips all year round, helping to prevent dryness.

For the launch Dendron are introducing a revolving display unit — the Blistex lip care centre. There are three competitions for pharmacists using the display, with the chance of winning a weekend in Paris, a ten day trip to Amsterdam or a 14 day visit to Disneyland.

A consumer leaflet has been produced, entitled Blistex Lip Service. Copies are available from representatives. The launch will be supported with a Press campaign in women's magazines. Dendron Ltd. Tel: 0923 229251.

Wella add semi-permanent to Colour Confidence

Wella have launched a semi-permanent colorant range, Colour Confidence Wash Out colour.

The colorant comes in 12 shades and is said to colour and condition in one simple step and contains no ammonia or peroxide.

Wash Out colour is left to develop for up to 30 minutes and washes out over six to eight shampoos, say Wella. The conditioning agents work while the colour develops.

Colour Confidence Wash

Out colour comes in a 60ml applicator bottle together with protective cape, gloves and instruction leaflet (£2.49). To support the brand in-store a range of point of sale material is available, including shelf reservoirs, shade guides, showcards and window displays.

The product will be supported throughout the year with a £3 million television and Press campaign. Wella Great Britain. Tel: 0256 20202.

Mentadent gets sensitive addition

Elida Gibbs have extended the Mentadent toothpaste range with a sensitive teeth variant — Mentadent S.

Research carried out by the company revealed that 19 per cent of people suffer from sensitive teeth, of which only 43 per cent use a specially designed toothpaste. At present one brand dominates the sensitive market with an 84 per cent share.

Mentadent S contains potassium citrate and fluoride and has been clinically proven to help relieve the pain of sensitive teeth, say Elida Gibbs. It works by deactivating the sensory nerve endings, preventing painful reaction to heat, cold and dehydration. The paste has already been successfully launched in Germany and Austria and will shortly be launched in France.

The new paste comes in two sizes — 50ml (£1.55) and 100ml (£2.29) plus a 25ml trial size (£0.29).

Elida Gibbs are also adding two new toothbrushes to their Mentadent P professional range.

The new Mentadent P Ultra Professional (£1.65) offers a dual action bristle head, longer bristles to massage the gum and short bristles to remove plaque. The Mentadent P Junior Professional (£1.35) is said to be the first of its kind created for children.

The Mentadent range will be supported by a £3.5 million advertising and promotional campaign throughout the year. An additional £1.1m will be invested in a television campaign for Mentadent S, which runs from February until April. Elida Gibbs. Tel: 071-486 1200.

Shaving additions from Wilkinson Sword

Wilkinson Sword are introducing three new shaving foams and a new shaving gel.

The new foam variants are designed for tough beards, sensitive skin and normal skin. All three are semi-soapless, with a low level of stearic acid, said to help reduce build up on razor and blades. The sensitive skin variant contains a camomile based anti-inflammatory agent and half the glycerine level of standard foams. The strong beard variant ensures an even coating to soften whiskers. They all retail at £1.09 each (200ml), are colour coded and available in cases of five.

The new shaving gel is for sensitive skin. It is fragrance-free and also contains a camomile based anti-inflammatory agent. It retails at £1.65 (200ml) and comes in cases of six or 12 cans.

To support the launch a display unit containing 20 Profile razors (ten fixed and ten swivel) and 60 packs of five replacement blades is being offered with 12 cans of free shaving gel — six sensitive and six normal.

To support the foam launch, Wilkinson Sword are offering composite cases containing five cans of each variant. There will also be a price promotion on all three variants — £0.99 instead of £1.09. Wilkinson Sword. Tel: 0494 533300.

Contrelle for leaks

Contrelle, an internal bladder support designed to prevent minor urine leakage in women suffering from stress incontinence, goes on sale in pharmacies this month.

It has been used in hospitals and clinics for several years and has been developed for over the counter sale by Nottingham-based Femcare. Previously known as the Femcare sponge, the product is a non-absorbent, single use device that is available OTC in a pack of five sponges (£4.95).

Further details of Femcare and Contrelle will be published next week. Femcare. Tel: 0602 786322.

For mother

Mornys have come up with a special offer for Mother's Day. On purchase of any product from the Morny selection customers get a free box of Cadbury's Roses chocolate.

Consumers need to send off one token from the special Morny packs with one proof of purchase to receive their 8oz box of Roses. With two tokens and proofs of purchase customers will receive a 1lb box plus a 50p money-off coupon on the next Morny purchase. Closing date for the offer is June 30, 1992. Lentheric Morny. Tel: 0276 62181.

Smithkline Beecham are relaunching their Silvikrin male haircare range for the New Year. Packaging has been updated to extend its appeal to 45 plus users. The Hair Dressing lotion is now available to pharmacists in sixes. Smithkline Beecham Personal Care. Tel: 081-560 5151.

Medical Matters

RU486: a possibility for endometriosis?

Roussel are investigating the possibility of mifepristone (Mifegyne) for the treatment of endometriosis, since treatment with other anti-progestogens has proved successful in the condition.

Preliminary trials using high doses have been conducted although the results have not yet been finalised. A spokesman for Roussel says there is no doubt that chronic daily dosing blocks ovulation; the company is now conducting dose-ranging studies to determine the lowest dose required.

According to Pulse, (Dec 21/28) mifepristone may also be beneficial in treating uterine fibroids, Cushing's syndrome and tumours of the meninges, but Roussel stress these are preliminary trials using high doses.

We've gone beyond the stage where pharmacists deny themselves the advantages of purchasing imported product. For most pharmacists the issue nowadays is not "whether?" but rather "from whom?"

The API agrees that this is a critical question. The pharmacist needs to be absolutely sure that product meets all the stringent requirements, rightly demanded by the D.O.H. and the M.C.A.; as well as receiving fair commercial value. This is where the API comes into its own.

The API is the only trade association for importers of licensed pharmaceutical drugs into the UK.

BUY WITH CONFIDENCE

Our members fully support the systems in place that ensure the legitimacy of imported product. To this end API members subscribe to a rigorous Code of Ethics. All API members have their own Manufacturers (Assembly Only) Licence and observe comprehensive quality control practices.

All the above companies are members of the API and can be contacted at the phone numbers above. For more information on the API, write to the address below or phone us on 071-240 5131.

You'll find that with an API company, pharmaceutical imports are not just good for your wealth but for your health as well.
